CERCLE FRANCAIS TO HOLD MEETING

Dr. Leacock to Speak on How
French Should Be Taught

Following closely upon the very successful meeting held two weeks ago, the Cercle Francais is holding another meeting next Tuesday evening at the Union Cafeteria. The special item of the evening is a lecture by a person who has always had a great interest in French letters and culture and who can be considered an authority on this subject. The guest is no other than Prof. Stephen Leacock, who will give a scientific and scholarly discourse on a complicated subject, viz., "How French should be taught." We all have our notions of how French ought not to be taught and it will be interesting to learn of Prof. Leacock's views gathered from his own experience. The members of the Cercle should turn out en masse for this meet-for themselves that Prof. Leacock is able to juggle French verbs and genders with that fluency and eloquence that makes his English speeches so enjoyable.

Following the custom of preceding meetings a debate will also form part of the evening's entertainment. The subject is "Resolved, that the English language is superior to the French language."

The names of the debaters will be made known later. Members are once more requested to keep next Tuesday evening open for this meeting.

SENIOR POLO MEN DROPPED M.S.C. GAME

City Championship in Balance Last Night

SCORE 3-2

McGill Rests Till M.S.C.
Finish Schedule

Before a crowd of enthusiastic and hopeful rooters and a large gallery of spectators, the M.S.C. and McGill Seniors fought it out at the M.A.A.A. tank in what might have been a championship game. Had McGill won last night, they would have annexed the title; as it is, if M.S.C. win their next game with M.A.A.A. on the 14th, they will be tied with McGill for first place. A loss would give McGill the championship automatically. Expecting some hard fighting, Referee Gariepy warned both teams before they entered the water that he would call every foul; and he did, as well as some plays that were not. All the men were matched fairly closely, and any display of roughness was greeted with a penalty, six of one minute each being handed out. Free throws were numerous for such offences as over-swimming or sinking a man without the ball, and the whistle was kept busy a all times.

The M.S.C. supporters were very jubilant during the first quarter, with their team two goals up, but as the game progressed, McGill hit their stride. With the score 3-2 against them, they tried desperately to even up, and only brilliant defensive play by M.S.C. prevented them from doing so. Excitement ran high, and the crowd were kept on their toes, McGill hoping and M.S.C. fearing, that the tying goal would still be. Since it meant so much for the College, the band of students ripped off their bell at frequent intervals to inject a fresh supply of pep into their representatives in the tank. Their efforts were unavailing, however, and an audible sigh of relief rose from a section of the gallery when the final whistle blew.

Jardine, the McGill goalie, who was playing his first Senior game last night performed well.

He was met just after the start by a trick play from Kerry, who worked the old-time submarine stunt. He sank at centre, swam with the ball towards the goal, then came up quickly and scored, being taken unawares, Jardine had no chance, but he settled down quickly after his sudden reverse and played a steady game. Jack Kerry, of the M.S.C., is reported to have quit polo after 14 years of play, but when Stafford left the city, he was coaxed into filling the breach, and was a strong factor in deciding last night's game. The McGill defence, although up against heavier men, went at them in such a determined manner that none of them retained the ball long, but preferred to get rid of it before being tackled. The forward line used their speed to advantage, and gave their markers considerable trouble throughout the game. It would be hard to single out (Continued on Page 3.)

EDITORIAL WRITER TO ADDRESS STAFF

General Meeting to Be Held
Monday Night

The Daily Staff is to have the privilege of hearing Mr. George S. Wright speak next Monday evening. It has been the policy of the Daily executive to endeavour to obtain speakers who are well versed in the practical side of journalism, to tell the staff exactly what they should do in order to turn out articles that are free from the errors made by most inexperienced reporters. The ability of writing newspaper items that are interesting and yet not unnecessarily exaggerated is secured by practice and by a knowledge of the work that is gained only through experience. The men who are at present writing the news articles for the Daily are for the most part quite new to the field and are at times at loss to write their articles in a clear and readable manner as is the style of the reporter on the city papers. The development of this ability is the chief object of the paper and it is for this reason that the arrangements are being made to have several more men who are as well known in the newspaper circles as Mr. Wright speak to the reporters.

The Daily will cease publication on the sixteenth of the month for the holidays. The paper will start publication on the fourth.

Automatic Phones of Great

GOOD TURNOUT

Members Thoroughly Inspected Large Plant

Yesterday afternoon a pleasant and very instructive visit was paid to the Northern Electric Company's plant by the first and second year members of the Mechanical Club.

The meeting was called for two o'clock in the Union, and it was encouraging to see such a large turnout of members; there were thirty or more present.

The party left on time and reached the factory safely, the only mishap being that the proverbial "Guy Street Car" found the pavement more attractive to its peculiar disposition than the rails.

On arriving at their destination the students were met by an official of the company, by whom they were introduced to the guides who had been provided. The inspector, as arranged for by the company, seemed—and for perfectly good reasons—to cover the different operations in just the reverse order to that in which they are actually carried out, so it would perhaps be better to start where the tour left off—that is, in the cellar.

The raw material, as purchased by the company, is delivered by trains from the G.T. and C.P. railways, each of which has a direct line to the factory. The material which is most used is copper wire. This product is delivered in a very rough and corroded condition, and in order to prepare it for use it is placed in large tanks and treated with a hot solution of muriatic acid. On coming from this bath, the wire, which has now a dull yellow appearance, is annealed by baking it in large ovens, and then plunging it into cold water. It is then drawn out to any required diameter by a machine which pulls it through different sized dies; it is then wound on spools for delivery to the different departments.

The wire now goes through different processes, such as tinning, cleaning, plaiting, etc., and is then ready to receive its protecting cover of rubber, cloth, paper, lead or steel, depending on the purpose for which it is intended to be used.

The machines which put on this insulation are very remarkable examples of mechanical skill, and many of the (Continued on Page Three)

SCHOLARSHIPS

Shall Rugby Be Played With Americans Next Year?

The deficit in connection with the "Daily"; International Scholarships; and whether the Senior Rugby team shall play in U. S. territory next year, were the three main subjects of discussion at the open meeting of the Students' Council in the Union last evening.

The prospective faculty representatives on the Students' Council spoke, outlining briefly their platforms. There were two candidates from Science—Shattford and Ogilvy; two from Medicine—McGregor and Webster; also Cope from Arts, and Maurice from Commerce. Anderson, the representative from Law, was elected by acclamation. All gave the assurance that if honoured with election to the Council, they would do all in their power to further the best interests of the students.

R. L. Hamilton brought up the question of the serious deficit being incurred this year by the publishing of the "Daily," urging the importance of meeting this difficulty squarely and of finding some means of overcoming it. According to the Budget the deficit will amount to $1400. The reason for this, as explained by J. L. O'Brien, is the great decrease in the income realized from advertising. The Students' paper, unintentionally, has won the hostility of a great many of the business men downtown, due to some mistakes made in the paper last year. Hence advertising has been seriously curtailed. O'Brien suggested as a possible means of overcoming this, that students who are personally known to business men, should talk to these men and point out the benefit to be derived from advertisements in the College paper, also that they will be guaranteed every satisfaction.

Hamilton added that when a student patronizes a business place, he should mention the fact that he is a student. The different stores would then realize that he students patronize them and they in turn would patronize the students by advertising in the "Daily."

"A great deal of the fault lies with the students themselves," Hamilton also pointed out that G. H. Fletcher, advertising manager of the "Daily," and who is a graduate of McGill, has worked hard for the success of the paper; his work has been very satisfactory, and that he must be given hearty support. A "Daily Week," beginning next Monday, has been planned to arouse the interest of the student body. Rochester, Vice-President of the Council, outlined the plan as follows—All Class presidents will be asked immediately to get after the men in their classes who know business firms or have intimate connections with business men, but they may talk to these business men and point out the advantages of advertising in the "Daily." This will pave the way for G. H. Fletcher, who canvasses (Continued on Page Two)

UNION DISCLOSES FACTS OF MYSTERY

Nocturnal Rivalries of Denizens Uncovered

Considerable apprehension has been expressed in certain quarters, not unmixed with elation in others, over the obvious air of activity which has prevailed in the ball-room of the Union during the last few days. These operations, if carried on at a reasonable hour, would not have caused such a furore among those who have been in the vicinity, but when, as in the present case, the persons concerned have been most busy from midnight onwards it was felt that investigation was not out of place. It was in order to conduct such that a "Daily" reporter was dispatched two nights ago to form his version of the affair; the nature of the disclosures, or the pressure afterwards brought to bear upon him, was so damaging that the unfortunate member of the staff was, upon his return to the sanctum, totally unable to give a comprehensive account of his adventures. It was later found necessary to escort him to his room.

However, last night the mystery was uncovered. At first the reporter upon whom was imposed the task of discovery, was, from his station on the outer side of the locked door leading (Continued on Page 4.)

THREE MEN IN A BOAT.

The advertisers, the college paper, and the students are in the same boat. They all need money.

The students have to spend a certain amount of money—let them spend it with the merchants who advertise in the paper. The merchants will then give further advertising for the paper, and the Students' Council will then have more money to use for the undergraduates' benefit and the original money outlayed by the students will have returned to them.

COLLEGIATE INTERNATIONALISM

"The importance of international co-operation outside the sphere of politics," writes Bertrand Russell in his book "Political Ideals", "has been brought home to me by my own experience. I was until lately engaged in teaching a new science, which few men in the world were able to teach. My own work in this science was based chiefly upon the work of a German and an Italian. My pupils came from all over the civilized world: France, Germany, Austria, Russia, Greece, Japan, China, India—and America. None of us were conscious of any sense of national divisions. We felt ourselves an outpost of civilization, building a new road into the virgin forest of the unknown. All co-operated in the common task—and in the interest of such a work the political enmities of nations seemed trivial, temporary, and futile. But it is not only in the somewhat rarefied atmosphere of abstruse science that international co-operation is vital to the progress of civilization. All our economic problems, all the questions of securing the rights of labour, all the hopes of freedom at home and humanity abroad rest upon the creation of international good will."

We quote this passage in full because of its extreme significance at the present moment to us at McGill. The necessity of the task of promoting international good-will should be recognized by all; and the role of paramount importance which the universities can play in bringing about such a spirit is here shown in the light of a personal experience. This is the best answer to those who feel that the question of foreign scholarships that is now before the Students' Council should be limited to students of our own religion and political way of thinking. There is between us and such students as these no differences, jealousies, suspicions, or misunderstandings to be dispelled; and, on the other hand, it is the very students whom the more conventional might be inclined to exclude who will contribute and receive the greatest benefit from such an exchange of scholarships as has been proposed. There is still something of hatred, suspicion and fear dominating our mutual feeling, and just so long as such a condition is permitted to exist, we cannot hope to escape the dread of violence and war.

We in the Canadian universities have been presented with an opportunity of showing our lively interest in the question of international peace, and of taking the first step in what may well prove an epoch-making international movement. It is from the college men that tomorrow's leaders of the world are to come, and it is among college men that feelings of racial fellowship must be stimulated. And however we may criticize the minor details of the proposed plan of petitioning the Dominion Government to provide international scholarships, let us make certain that the students of McGill do not neglect so great an opportunity of demonstrating their concern in such vital matters of international education, peace, and good-will.

THE OPEN MEETING

The first Open Meeting of the Students' Council that has been held for many years took place yesterday afternoon and proved its worth beyond all question. Many matters came up for discussion and were considered in a summary manner. The one proposition that received the greatest amount of attention, and that for which the meeting was primarily called, was that of the advertising of the McGill Daily. The plan brought forth to aid the publication, demanding active co-operation of every student in the university, who is expected to use the "personal touch" and to do all in his power to assist his paper, is deserving of the highest recommendation and of the unstinted support of the undergraduates—and it is only by this latter agency that its object can be achieved. An interest in the editing and maintenance of the college journal, a student activity in the genuine sense of the word, is hardly too much to expect from the student body; and it is to be hoped that each and every member of that body will exert himself when the matter is put before him by the representatives appointed by the Council.

Another question that compels mention is the idea mooted by one of the candidates for Faculty Representative upon the Students' Council with regard to the establishment of a University Book Store. Such an undertaking has already this year been endorsed in this column. It is difficult to conceive how McGill, so progressive in most respects, can afford to fall behind her lesser contemporaries in the respect of a Book Store. The place for such is too apparent to require further elaboration and it can only be trusted that at some future date the university authorities will take action to that end.

The appearance of the nominees of the various faculties before the gathering certainly served the desired purpose in bringing them before their electors, and also before the body whose interests some of them will be chosen to manage. What steps have been taken in the faculties themselves will be evident upon election day—that is, tomorrow—when votes will be cast; whether by a few or the entire members of that undergraduate society depending upon the publicity which the elections have been awarded by the campaigners.

EDITORIAL NOTE

McGill Senior Water-Poloists, after being singularly successful throughout the season thus far in remaining undefeated, suffered a reverse at the hands of the Montreal Swimming Club. Had the Red and White been victorious they would have achieved the championship and the loss is probably doubly keen because of that. However, interest in the game of Water Polo is fast establishing it as one of the foremost of athletic sports at college, and from that fact losers, as well as victors, may take equal encouragement.

NOTICES

ANNUAL NOTICES

Subscriptions.
Class presidents have subscription lists for the 1924 Annual. The attention of the students is drawn to the fact that no books will be published except those actually subscribed for.

Write-ups.

Class and club articles for the Annual must be handed to the Biography Editor, your Faculty representative, a member of the Annual Board, or left at the Hall Porter's desk, Union, without delay.

Photographs.

Individuals, Clubs and Societies who wish their photographs to appear in the Annual will have to telephone Mr. Burroughs at St. Louis 5096, and make a special appointment. Because of the Christmas rush at the photographers, pictures must be taken immediately.

Proofs.

The photographers report that several proofs, chiefly of group pictures, have not yet been returned. Some of these were delivered by the photographers a long as two weeks ago. Will the group kindly see that all proofs are returned without further delay.

The following is a revised list of headings to be published in the 1924 Annual, both humorous and serious: Arts, Arts Juniors, Commerce, Commerce Juniors, Medicine, Medicine Juniors, Science, Science Juniors, Law, Law Juniors, Dentistry, Dentistry Juniors, R.V.C., R.V.C. Juniors, Music, Theology, M.S.P.E., Student Organizations, McGill Daily, Athletics, Mock Parliament, Fraternities, and "The End."

Although a number of the above designs have been promised, several still remain to be done, and it will be noticed that additional designs have been called for in the last few days. Those willing to undertake the design of one or more of the above headings, are urged to see the Art Editor, P. R. Wilson, Architectural Dept., Engineering Bldg., before starting work, and as soon as possible. One copy of the 1924 Annual will be awarded to every artist whose work appears in the publication.

MEDICINE '28.

Will all who desire to obtain a copy of Med. '28 group photograph please see Bassen. Unless they do so by Friday, it will be impossible for them to get one.

MARITIMERS.

Tickets for the Maritime-Western dance on December 12th may now be obtained from the following members of the Maritime Executive:
D. J. MacGillivray, Med. '24.
H. L. Simpson, Med. '24.
C. Thompson, Med. '25.
R. K. Jones Arts '23.
J. W. Wyse, Science.
Miss D. Teed, R.V.C.

These tickets are $2.50 each (per couple) to paid-up members, and $3.00 to non-paid up members, so have your membership card with you. Secure your tickets early and avoid the rush.

E. T. CLUB.

There will be a general meeting of the Eastern Townships Club in the Lounge Room of the Union to-morrow, at 5 p.m. This is to take the place of yesterday's meeting, which was postponed on account of the Students' Council meeting.

MACCABAEAN DANCE.

On account of unforeseen circumstances the Maccabaeon Dance, which was to be held on Dec. 12th, has been postponed till after the Christmas vacation. Particulars as to date will be announced later.

ARTS '23 NOTICE.

Members of Arts '23 desirous of securing a copy of the 1924 Annual are asked to sign the class subscription list in the hands of A. T. McIntyre, immediately, as the last will be withdrawn in a few days.

GLEE CLUB, IMPORTANT!

Members of the Glee Club are reminded to turn out sharp on time for the two remaining practices in order that everything may be finished up satisfactorily before the final rehearsal in the Convocation Hall. Bring Songbooks.

The ticket committee is asked to be prepared to give particulars about the sale of tickets. Each man must report to the head of his team as soon as possible, in order that this may be done.

MARITIME-WESTERN DANCE.

Tickets for the Maritime-Western Dance may be secured from Miss Teed, R.V.C. '23, and R. K. Jones, Arts '23.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY.

Professor H. G. Barbour's lecture on the "Chemical Bearings of Pharmacology," which had been postponed on account of the special convocation for Admiral Sims, will be given before the McGill Chemical Society Friday afternoon, Dec. 8, at five o'clock. The meeting will be held in the Chemistry and Mining Building as usual. All those interested are invited to attend.

MECHANICAL CLUB.

Professor A. R. Roberts will speak before the members of the club on "Bearing Lubrication," in the Engineering Building on Monday, Dec. 11, at 8

FASCISTI.

A paper on the Fascisti will be delivered by Mr. M. Latini on Friday, Dec. 8, at 8.15 p.m., in the Strathcona Hall. The meeting has been arranged by the Cosmopolitan Club. All McGill students invited to attend.

R.V.C. IMPORTANT!

As a number of the tickets for the Thé Dansant have not been accounted for in either money or tickets, would those girls still holding such make a special effort to have them turned in as soon as possible.

GLEE CLUB

Concert on Thursday, December 14, at R.V.C.

he business firms for advertising purposes. Typewritten lists of firms will be printed, and in order that no overprinting may occur, that is, that two or more students may not canvass the same business man, students will be required to report to the Union as to which firm they will canvass. In closing the discussion Hamilton stated that, "If every student considers this a personal matter is going to count a great deal in getting more advertising this year."

With regard to the proposed petitioning of the Dominion Government for the granting of International Scholarships, "whose object will be to promote a better understanding between the countries of the world," Bob Hall made a few remarks. "He said that the proposition may sound rather Utopian, but that through time good results may be realized. It was contended by Arnold that foreign students who were Socialistic, Communistic, or Bolshevistic in their views should not be encouraged to come to Canada to be educated. But as Hall pointed out, it will be through such students, as well as others who are from countries Christian, and non-Christian, that the ideals of the International Scholarships will be realized. By educating in Canada the best type of students from all foreign countries, they will be brought to appreciate the Canadian point of view, its customs, and its religion; after such a broadening influence on the mind these students will go back to their native countries and after becoming leaders in their native land will influence their fellow countrymen into a friendlier feeling for Canada and Canadians."

A lengthy debate followed on the advisability of playing rugby with the Americans again next year. Roddie McLagan pointed out that last year the Senior Rugby team played Syracuse here under American rules. This fall the team went down to Syracuse and again played under American rules. He thinks it is up to the Americans to return the compliment and if another game is played next year it should be played under Canadian Rugby rules. "Doug." Ambridge expressed himself as very much against playing another game. Philpotts was just as strong for playing again with the Americans, stating that the McGill team showed good sportsmanship in going down to Syracuse and playing under the disadvantage of strange rules; moreover, that the people across the line appreciated the difficulty under which the McGill team was labouring in such a case. "Doug." McGregor was also in favour of another game, because of the increased revenue such a game afforded to the Rugby Club. The veterans of the Senior Rugby team seemed to be pretty well divided in their points of view on this subject. "Flin" Flanagan was very much against the contentions of the last two named men. He said that the average person in the U. S. doesn't know that the Canadian game is different from the American; they don't even know in many cases that the forward pass is against the rules of Canadian Rugby; that after the team here practices for a very short time under the American rules, they go down there and naturally get beaten; as a consequence the McGill team is losing prestige, is being judged by people who, on the average, do not understand the difficulties under which the McGill team labour when playing under American rules. "Flin" suggested that if another game was to be played on American ground, it should be played between McGill and Toronto, as an exhibition game, when the people in the U.S. will get a chance to see the Canadians play their own game, and to appreciate the worth of these teams when playing unfamiliar rules.

Hamilton suggested that when deciding such a policy the present executive should consult first those men who will be most affected next year, by such a new policy, in order that the men who will be in charge of the club next year will know fully the present reasons leading toward such a step, and if any difference of opinion exists it could be dealt with. However, if there were many men who desired further explanation, that a meeting could be called, and any difference of opinion adjusted.

A comparatively large crowd, about a hundred and seventy-five, attended the Council meeting. This shows a marked increase of interest in such a meeting.

Share alike is fair enough. Give the advertisers a return for the assistance they give to you.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Daily is not responsible for the sentiments of letters published in the correspondence columns. Signed communications from graduates, undergraduates and members of the faculties will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office—that they write upon ONE SIDE of the paper ONLY.

Montreal, Dec. 6, 1922.

To the Editor,
McGill Daily:

Dear Sir,—In Tuesday's "Daily" appeared an article, under the heading, "One Side of the Co-Ed. Question"; and very much one-sided, indeed, were the statements it contained.

The "Co-Ed" seems to be one of the topics of the day, and in reading such opinions as Mr. Alonso B. See's, one must very carefully consider the person behind the words. Who is he, anyway, who is speaking in this manner? Is he an authority on the subject, or is he simply trying to make a show. The fact that he is head of an elevator company means very little here. I am speaking very seriously. Too many, these days, are apt to utter words so preposterous. That it is impossible to refute them, and yet such words are trumpeted to the fore.

If any one has anything to say on "Co-Education" or any other subject, for that matter, let him bring forward his argument; derision only indicates ignorance. And, as in the case of Mr. See, it is utterly unreasonable to condemn a whole group because of one element of that group.

Justice to the "Co-Ed."

MORE REALITY THAN RHYME

One day he tried to write a story,
Which humbly he submitted;
The editor said he was sorry—
The story was remitted.

He mailed a few scenarios,
Which quickly did return;
"Your dope," said impressarios,
"Is only fit to burn."

And then he wrote a few odd lines,
Which rhymed a bit like these;
His poetry it was defined
Not worth its weight in cheese.

And when he tried to stage a play,
With heavy tragic stuff,
Directors said: "Your comedy
Is just a bit too rough."

Determined to achieve some fame,
As he condemned the public;
Upon the Daily he became
A literary critic.

"BUBBLES" WILL BURST TO-NIGHT

Physical Eds Will Repeat Popular Play at Hall

When the Physical Eds put on their popular play "Bubbles" at Strathcona Hall tonight it will be before a large and interested audience, if talk about the campus is any sign. Last week the people who witnessed the play at the R.V.C. were so taken with the talent and the acting that the co-eds were induced to replay their excellent theatricals. The play itself is of McGill fame for it was scarcely three weeks ago that Miss K. Gilmour originated the comedy which has become so well known around the college to demand a second showing.

Admission will be thirty-five cents. All proceeds will be donated to the Children's Memorial Hospital. Any students who may happen to stray into Strathcona Hall a few minutes after 8:15 o'clock this evening may count on seeing an entertainment which will provide plenty of music and fun.

Those who saw the "Stunts" put on last Wednesday by the R.V.C. came away with high praise and satisfaction. Those who attend this evening's event will be equally delighted.

MEETING OF ARTS UNDERGRADUATES

Monday Evening Next in Union Cafeteria

An important meeting of the Arts Undergraduate Society will take place in the Cafeteria at the Union on Monday evening next. An amendment to the constitution will be discussed and the final debate between Arts '23 and Arts '25 will take place.

The long standing question will be decided as to the membership of students of the Department of Commerce in the Arts Undergraduate Society. The vote is to be taken on an amendment to the constitution whereby the Commerce students will be excluded from the Arts Undergraduate Society. The Commerce men will then be free to form a society of their own.

The subject of the debate is: "Resolved: That the United States of America should enter the League of Nations immediately," and it will be between Arts '23 and Arts '25. Wells and Freeman of the former year will uphold the affirmative, while Penrose and Everett of the latter class will take the negative side of the argument. This debate should prove interesting from more than one point of view. The question to be discussed is a pertinent one. The speakers on both sides have already given evidence of their powers of oratory and argumentation in previous debates and these men, who have argued their way through to the finals, can be relied on to give an interesting and instructive debate.

It is expected that Dean Laing will be present as chairman of the judges, and will address the meeting. Another speaker will be the newly elected representative of the Arts Undergraduates on the Students' Council.

Perhaps not the least interesting part of the evening's programme will be the refreshments. These will be served at the conclusion of the meeting.

THE GLEE CLUB HAS FINE PROGRAMME

Singers Have Given Much Time to Practices

The Glee Club held one of its last practices before the concert on December 14 and no one could deny that it showed the most promising results. Half the programme was sung absolutely without music and Mr. Key had very few criticisms to offer. That this was most encouraging to the members of the club is putting it mildly and as a result the practice was a very happy one.

One blot on the spirits of the club members which has to be erased is the fact that the student body is apparently not interested in its Glee Club. Almost the entire staffs in both the Science and Physics buildings have expressed their keenest interest in the club and the staffs in the other faculties are not far behind. They are with the Glee Club and this fact has given the club no little comfort all through the weeks of practicing. Outsiders are watching the McGill Glee Club. However, the Glee Club is essentially a student organization and as such should receive the students' support. The club has worked very hard for the last two months and if the students fail to show their interest in the success of this club, the members will feel exactly as the football or hockey teams would if they had played to empty grandstands.

The Glee Club is out to prove the old saying that "nothing succeeds like success" and is relying on the University to back it up. It may be mentioned in passing that the students' tickets are less than the price of a movie seat, namely, fifty-five cents.

DELTA SIGMA SOCIETY IMPROMPTU SPEAKING

All members of the R.V.C. should make a point of attending the impromptu speaking given under the auspices of the Delta Sigma Society in the Common Room at 4:15 o'clock this afternoon. Lists have been posted on the Notice Board to be signed by those who wish to partake in this contest. Many amusing, instructive, and interesting subjects have been chosen by the executive. Each contestant will draw a slip on which is written a subject, and after two minutes' preparation she will deliver a three-minute talk. Besides providing an excellent opportunity of gaining experience in public speaking—a thing which is of

Into the ball-room, baffled by the frenzied shouting, disjointed addition and heavy stamping and demands for adhesive tape, which he heard in the inner room. After waiting until an early hour this morning his patience was rewarded when he came upon men prominent on the Union House Committee and certain members of the Students' Council Secretariat sneaking from the scene of their endeavours in perspiring conditions and in dress of varied assortments. Upon noting mention of "Badminton" the scribe at once conceived the idea that these men had taken upon themselves the establishment of that pastime at McGill, possibly with an Intercollegiate aspirant among them. It appears, though, that this diversion has been receiving support from the House Committee for a considerable period and that its members felt personally slighted that representatives from their midst had not been invited to a Badminton Tea advertised in the Social Column of one of the city papers some days ago, and to assure themselves that they would not escape notice a second time delegated three from their number to become proficient in this new art, at the same time advising those thus honoured to procure suitable material upon which to practice—which accounts for the presence of the Council Secretariat. In order to encourage this game at the college an invitation is issued to any students who may be able to gain admission to the Union by the front door after ten o'clock to attend the contests.

CLASS PRESIDENTS MEETING YESTERDAY

Yesterday afternoon, immediately following the meeting of the Students' Council, the class president got together under the leadership of "Hammy" Hamilton to discuss several questions of great importance. Unfortunately, owing to the lateness of the hour only a quintette were present, and nothing definite was done.

Hamilton urged that the presidents should make clear to their respective classes the importance of the coming "Daily" week, when a great attempt will be made to bolster up the advertising and put the paper on a thoroughly stable basis. This, Hamilton said, could be easily done if every man in college put one-twentieth of the energy into the effort that the "Daily" staff are putting in steadily. By helping in this way, the students will do a great service for their college, and will also have the satisfaction of knowing that they are doing their part to relieve a serious situation.

The second matter dealt with was the elections on Friday. "Hammy" hoped the presidents would speak to their fellow-students in order that as large a vote as possible may be polled. In former years, it has been noticed that many students did not bother to, or forgot to show their preference by casting their vote; this showed a lack of spirit which is at present greatly needed, and it is hoped that on Friday every one will turn out.

The meeting closed after a very short session, and further news for the presidents will be found in the "Notices."
